

Your partner Bückmann

Bückmann is an owner-managed company in the field of screening and separation technology.

Our products and services have been successful on the market for over 20 years.

This experience forms the basis for the new screening machines service.

The screening machines service

Thanks to our know-how in bulk materials technology, we can provide you with competent assistance in the design and equipping of your screening machines.

The service applies to most screening machine types and is therefore independent of the manufacturer.

Screening machines service according to the customer's wishes:

- Screening tensioning service: For all screening machines
- Processing service: Takeover of processing service
- Fabric technology: Manufacturing of screen and filter elements
- System optimisation: Screen performance, screen data, analyses, control
- Maintenance: System maintenance and service
- Spare and wearing parts: Procurement, management and storage
- New systems: Engineering up to handover
- Employee training: On site or at Bückmann
